Our best thanks to the kind clerk of the Fashion for a package of St. Louis papers, received last night.

Hate, Caps, and Furs.

We know not when it has been our pleasure to behold so splendid an assortment of hats, caps, and furs, as may be found at this time in the establishment of Pollard, Pinckney, & Smith, 465 Main street. The proprietors seem determined to meet, if possible, all our competition. Their original premium hat, for beauty, defense, ornament, and is pronounced by competent judges to be the best of the season. As to their large and splendid assortment of children's fancy hats and ladies' furs, we feel confident that a more choice selection can nowhere be found. In order that just appreciation of the beautiful assortment of goods in this establishment may be formed, we request the aid and good-will of Louisville to visit the house and judge for themselves.

The grand jury returned a true bill against Kikilinski, yesterday, for murder.

How—The hog slaughtering business continues very brisk, and from 9,000 to 10,000 hogs are killed daily at the various packing establishments in the city.

Prices have an upward tendency. One of our packers offered $5.35 net for a lot of 300 hogs yesterday, which, if taken, will be the highest price obtained here this season.

The Madison Courier quotes a hog buyer, with sales on Tuesday at $5.25, at which there were more buyers than sellers.

Gift Books.

In the establishment of T. R. Nelson, 495 Main street, may be found a choice selection of beautiful bound books, suitable for holiday presents, and which are offered at prices remarkably low. Many of these books are truly splendid, and are worthy the attention of those who intend during the coming holidays to make an appropriate present to some dearest friend. Visit the establishment, as a glance at these beautiful bound books will richly repay you for your trouble.

A gentleman lost a gold lever watch, valued at about $100, near Walker's Exchange, on Tuesday night. The finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving it in this office.

Accident—A child named Hays, whose parents reside in Washington street, between Preston and Jackson, was run over by a milk wagon on Main street, near Preston, last evening, and was severely injured.

Mr. Sam. Hyman, the Episcopate King, supplied with everything, in and out of season, to suit the palate. His bill of fare is always full, and so is the list of his Marble Hall.

A free fight took place in Jefferson street on Tuesday night, in which some six or eight persons participated. Two of the combatants were taken before a magistrate yesterday, and fined $5 each, for their sport.

The item which appeared in a morning paper yesterday about a country gentleman finding $50, a wagon and team, and a barrel of flour, is very good, but, unfortunately for the writer, robbing of the kind occurred. Try again, Mr. Courier.

We call the attention of travelers, and those in search of excellent boarding, to the care of Messrs. Strader & Barton, proprietors of the Oldham House. These gentlemen, we doubt not, will give every attention to render their guests comfortable.

The concert of the Misses Raymond at Messrs. Hall on Wednesday evening last, is looked forward to with much interest. It will doubtless be an excellent entertainment.

Dr. H. Logan Lyon, formerly post master at Bedford, Trimble county, Ky., died in this city yesterday morning. His funeral takes place to-day.

Two hogheads of new tobacco were sold at the Farmers' Warehouse yesterday at $9.20 and $9.55 per hundred. The receipts of the new crop are very light.

Broken Goods Recovered.—We stated a few days ago in the Democrat, that Mr. Patton's residences in First street, between Green and Walnut, had been robbed of a quantity of silver plate and a small amount of money. Yesterday officer Say found the articles and a portion of the money under the steps in front of Mr. Patton's house. A youth named Beach, and a negro boy belonging to Mr. Clark, are suspected of having committed the robbery. The negro was in the employ of Mr. Patton at the time the things were stolen.

The trial of Jesse Stout, for the murder of Hardin Bullock, occupied the Criminal Court all yesterday. The case was given to the jury at a late hour last evening. They will not probably bring in a verdict before this morning.

The attention of our lady readers is invited to the assignee's sale of a Milliner's establishment. See advertisement.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN DANVILLE, INDIANA.—Half the town in ruins.—We learn that a fire occurred in Danville, Ind., on Monday night last, which destroyed nearly all the business part of the town. With the exception of a small brick building at the north east corner, the entire north side of the public square was swept away. The buildings were all uninsured.

River News.

One year ago, at this date, the river was frozen over.

We are indebted to Mr. J. T. George, the gentlemanly keeper on the Geo. Campbell, for the river favors. The Geo. Campbell leaves for Tuscumbia and Florence to-morrow.

We noticed on the steamer Memphis, which passed down the river yesterday, a large locomotive and tender for the Memphis and Charleston railroad. They were manufactured at the extensive foundry of Harkness & Co., on Cincinnati.

The steamer St. Clair, Capt. R. D. Cochran, will leave for New Orleans to-day at 9 o'clock. Mr. J. K. Moody is the agent.

The Fashion has been withdrawn from the Louisville and St. Louis packet line, and will run in future between this port and New Orleans. She leaves on her first trip to-morrow, in charge of Capt. Richard H. Woolfolk, an efficient and popular officer.

The Lady Pink, Captain Reemelin, takes the place of the Fashion in the St. Louis trade. She has recently been thoroughly repaired, re-plated, and is in point of speed and comfort, will equal any boat in the trade. The ship leaves for St. Louis to-morrow.

The fine new steamer New York, Capt. Gummere, leaves for St. Louis to-day.

THE ST. LOUIS RAILWAY.—One hundred and fifty miles of the grading and masonry on the above road, from its intersection with the Jeffersonville and Columbus road, in Jackson Co., to Vincennes, is advertised to be let. Proposals will be received until Tuesday, the 6th of January, 1893.

THE JUSTICE CLUB, of St. Louis, has elected the editors of the St. Louis Evening News, in an action of slander, in which he lost the damages at the very moderate sum of $20,000. The cause of action is stated to be an article that appeared in that paper, entitled "The Price of Blood in St. Louis," in which the editor commented, with severity, on the fact that the justice club had admitted to bail one Haver, charged with the murder of Mary Smith, in the sum of one thousand dollars.

W. W. Strader, ticket agent for the Little Miami, and other railroads, in Cincinnati, has removed his office to the commodious rooms lately fitted up by him at the southeast corner of Front and Broadway streets, in this city.

The passenger and freight depots of the Covington and Lexington railroad, in the former city, it is said, when finished, will be the finest in the western country. They are now being built.

Martin B. Cumbs, a member of the Cincinnati Bar, made his debut at the National Theatre in that city, on Monday night last, in the play of Hamlet.

What a Reversal.—Last Spring a Mr. Baileman, of Kanawha county, Va., emigrated to Texas, with his family and negro servants, with the expectation of doing better in the world, although his circumstances in Virginia were very comfortable. When he reached his Texas home he found his servants dead, and his family so operated upon by him that he concluded to return to Virginia. On the way himself, wife and five children fell victims to cholera and other diseases, and found graves upon the banks of the Mississippi. At Memphis the remaining children were left to themselves, and a few days later reached home again, with the little remnant of $700 which had been left of their property.

It will be good news to lovers of game that the canvas back ducks are shot in great abundance just now on the Potomac.

It is announced that Mr. Putnam, in his forthcoming magazine, which is intended to rival the monthly of the Harpers, will not adopt the Websterian innovation in the mode of spelling English words.

Five young girls in Wilmarino, Conn., were fined $2 each, last week, for disturbing a Methodist meeting.

There have been a few cases of cholera among the recent arrivals of German emigrants at St. Louis.

General Pierce has been elected an honorary member of the New York Historical Society.

The best grapes made in Havana, called "Ramos," are worth in that city at the factory, $150 per thousand. Few ever find their way to this country, as they could not be sold here much under forty cents each.

The celebrated Billy Patterson, of whom so much has been said, is now stopping at the Gibson House, Cincinnati.

Three townships in Mississippi have procured, from the legislature of that State, the passage of an act, similar in its provisions to the Maine law, prohibiting the sale of spirituous liquors within their limits. On being submitted to the people, the vote stood—10 in favor, 12 against 85; majority in favor 85.

SKILLIN SURGERY.—A young man at Aberdeen, Mass., who had been deprived of both his legs by a violent disease, which left bare his teeth, and made his appearance repulsive, has had the art of Dr. Penner fully tested in Surgery. The doctor took a piece of flesh from the left arm of the youth, and stitched it so as to resemble as near as possible the nature of the leg. The operation was eminently successful; the patient was doing well, and now it is hoped that science will still farther triumph, by the discovery of some infallible hair oil which will bring out upon the false legs a divine vesture and thus hide the scar!

AFFAIR IN CINCINNATI.—We learned yesterday from a passenger on the steamer Memphis, that an altercation took place between a policeman of Cincinnati, and a deck hand on a steamerboat, on the levee in that city, on Monday morning, in which the latter was shot through the body and killed. The policeman was pretty roughly handled by the crowd which collected.

There are seventy-four towns in Ireland, none of which have less than twenty-five hundred inhabitants, but which have only a single bookstore in the whole number. The proportion of book stores in Scotland, compared with Ireland, in the same class of towns is nine to one. There are also six Irish counties which cannot boast of even one book-seller.

SIX cents damages and six cents cost have been recovered by Emory Matthew in a libel suit against the New York Sun.

The second Monday of January is the day fixed in New York for the trial of the parties indicted for the Henry Clay disaster.

COKEPONDENCE WITH CALIFORNIA.—The increase numbers of letters sent from this country to California, may be judged of from this fact, viz: the steamship Georgia, that recently left New York for San Francisco, took out 41,693 letters. Three years ago, 12,000 was considered a remarkable number and was heralded in all the newspapers of the Union.

Discovery of Embalmed Bodies.

A writer in the London Notes and Queries furnishes the following interesting account:

A few weeks ago in clearing out the ruins of an old chapel at Nuneham Regis, in Warwickshire, which had been pulled down, all but the belfry tower, 40 years since, we thought it necessary to trench the whole space, that we might more certainly mark out the boundaries of the building, as we wished to restore it, in some measure to its former state. It had been used as a stack-yard and a depository for rubbish, by the tenants of the farm on which it was, ever since its dilapidation. We began to trench at the west end, and came on a great many bones and skeletons from which the coffin had crumbled away, till finding the earth had been moved, we went deeper, and discovered a leaden coffin, quite perfect, without date or inscription of any kind. There had been an outer wooden coffin, which was decayed, but quantities of the black rotted wood were all around it. We cut the lead and folded back the top, so as not to destroy it; beneath was a wooden coffin of good preservation, and also without any inscription.

As soon as the leaden top was rolled back a most overpowering aromatic smell rushed itself all over the place. We then hastened the inner coffin, and found the body of a man embalmed with great care, and heaped of rosemary and aromatic leaves piled over him. On examining the body more closely we found it had been beheaded; the head was separately wrapped up in linen, and the linen shirt that covered the body was drawn quite over the neck where the head had been cut off; the head was laid straight with the body, and where the joining of the neck and head should have been, it was tied round with a broad black band. His hands were crossed on his breast, the wrists were tied with black riband, and the thumbs were tied together with black riband. He had a ticked beard, and a quantity of long brown hair, curled and dotted with black, round his neck; the mark on anything about him was the line on his chest, just above where his hands were crossed; on it were the letters "T. B." worked in black silk.

On trenching towards the chancel, we came on four leaden coffins laid side by side, with inscriptions on each; one contained the body of Francois, Earl of Chichester and Lord Danmure, 1653; the next the body of Audrey, the Countess of Chichester, 1652; another, the body of Lady Audrey Leigh, their daughter, 1640; and the fourth the body of Sir John Anderson, son of Lady Chichester by her first husband. We opened the coffin of Lady Audrey Leigh, and found her perfectly embalmed and in entire preservation; her flesh, quite plump as if she were alive, her face very beautiful, her hands exceedingly small and wasted; she was dressed in fine linen trimmed all over with point lace, and two rows of lace flat across her forehead. She looked exactly as if she were asleep, and seemed not more than 16 or 17 years old; her beauty was very great; even her eyelashes and eyebrows were quite perfect, and her eyes were closed; no part of her face or figure was at all fallen in.

We also opened Lady Chichester's coffin, but with her the embalming had apparently failed; she was a skeleton, though the coffin was filled with aromatic leaves. Her hair, however, was as fresh, as if she lived; it was long, thick, and as soft and glossy as that of a child, and of a perfect auburn color.

In trenching one side of where the altar had been, we found another leaden coffin with an inscription. It contained the body of a Dame Marie Browne, daughter of one of the Leighs, and of the Lady Marie, daughter to Lord Chancellor Brackley. This body was also quite perfect, and embalmed principally with a very small coffee-colored seed, which the coffin was newly filled, and it also had so powerful a perfume that it filled the whole place. The linen, ribbon, etc., were quite strong and good in all the instances, and remained so after exposure to the air; we kept a piece out of each coffin, and had it washed without it being at all destroyed. Young Lady Audrey had earrings in her ears—black-embellished serpents. The perfume of the herbs and gums used in embalming them was so sickening that we were all ill after inhaling it, and most of the men employed in digging up the coffins were ill also. My object in sending this account is, if possible, to discover who the beheaded man in the chapel is, and the Duke of Montague, into whose family Farnham Regis was long possessed. In Warwickshire came by the marriage of his grandfather with the daughter of Lord Danmure, Earl of Chichester.

Notes and Queries.

Some writer who has a proper appreciation of a gentleman, has produced the following:

TRUE GENTLEMEN.—Show me the young man who can quit the brilliant society of the young to listen to the kindly voice of age—who can hold cheerful converse with one whose years have deprived of charm—show me the man who is willing to help the deformed who stands in need of help—show me the man who will look rudely at the poor in the village, when at the well dressed lady in the saloon—show me the man who treats unprotected maidhood as he would the heires, surrounded by the powerful protection of rank, riches, and family—show me the man who abhors the libertine's gibe, who slurs as a blasphemer the traducer of his mother's sex—who scorns, as he would a coward, the ridicule of woman's foibles, or the exposure of woman's reputation—show me that man who never forgets, for an instant, the delicacy, the respect that is due to woman in any condition or class—and you show me a gentleman—may, you show me a better—you show me a true man and Christian.
